DEADLINE FOR ORDERING: AUGUST 1, 1991

Back again - our 86th year!

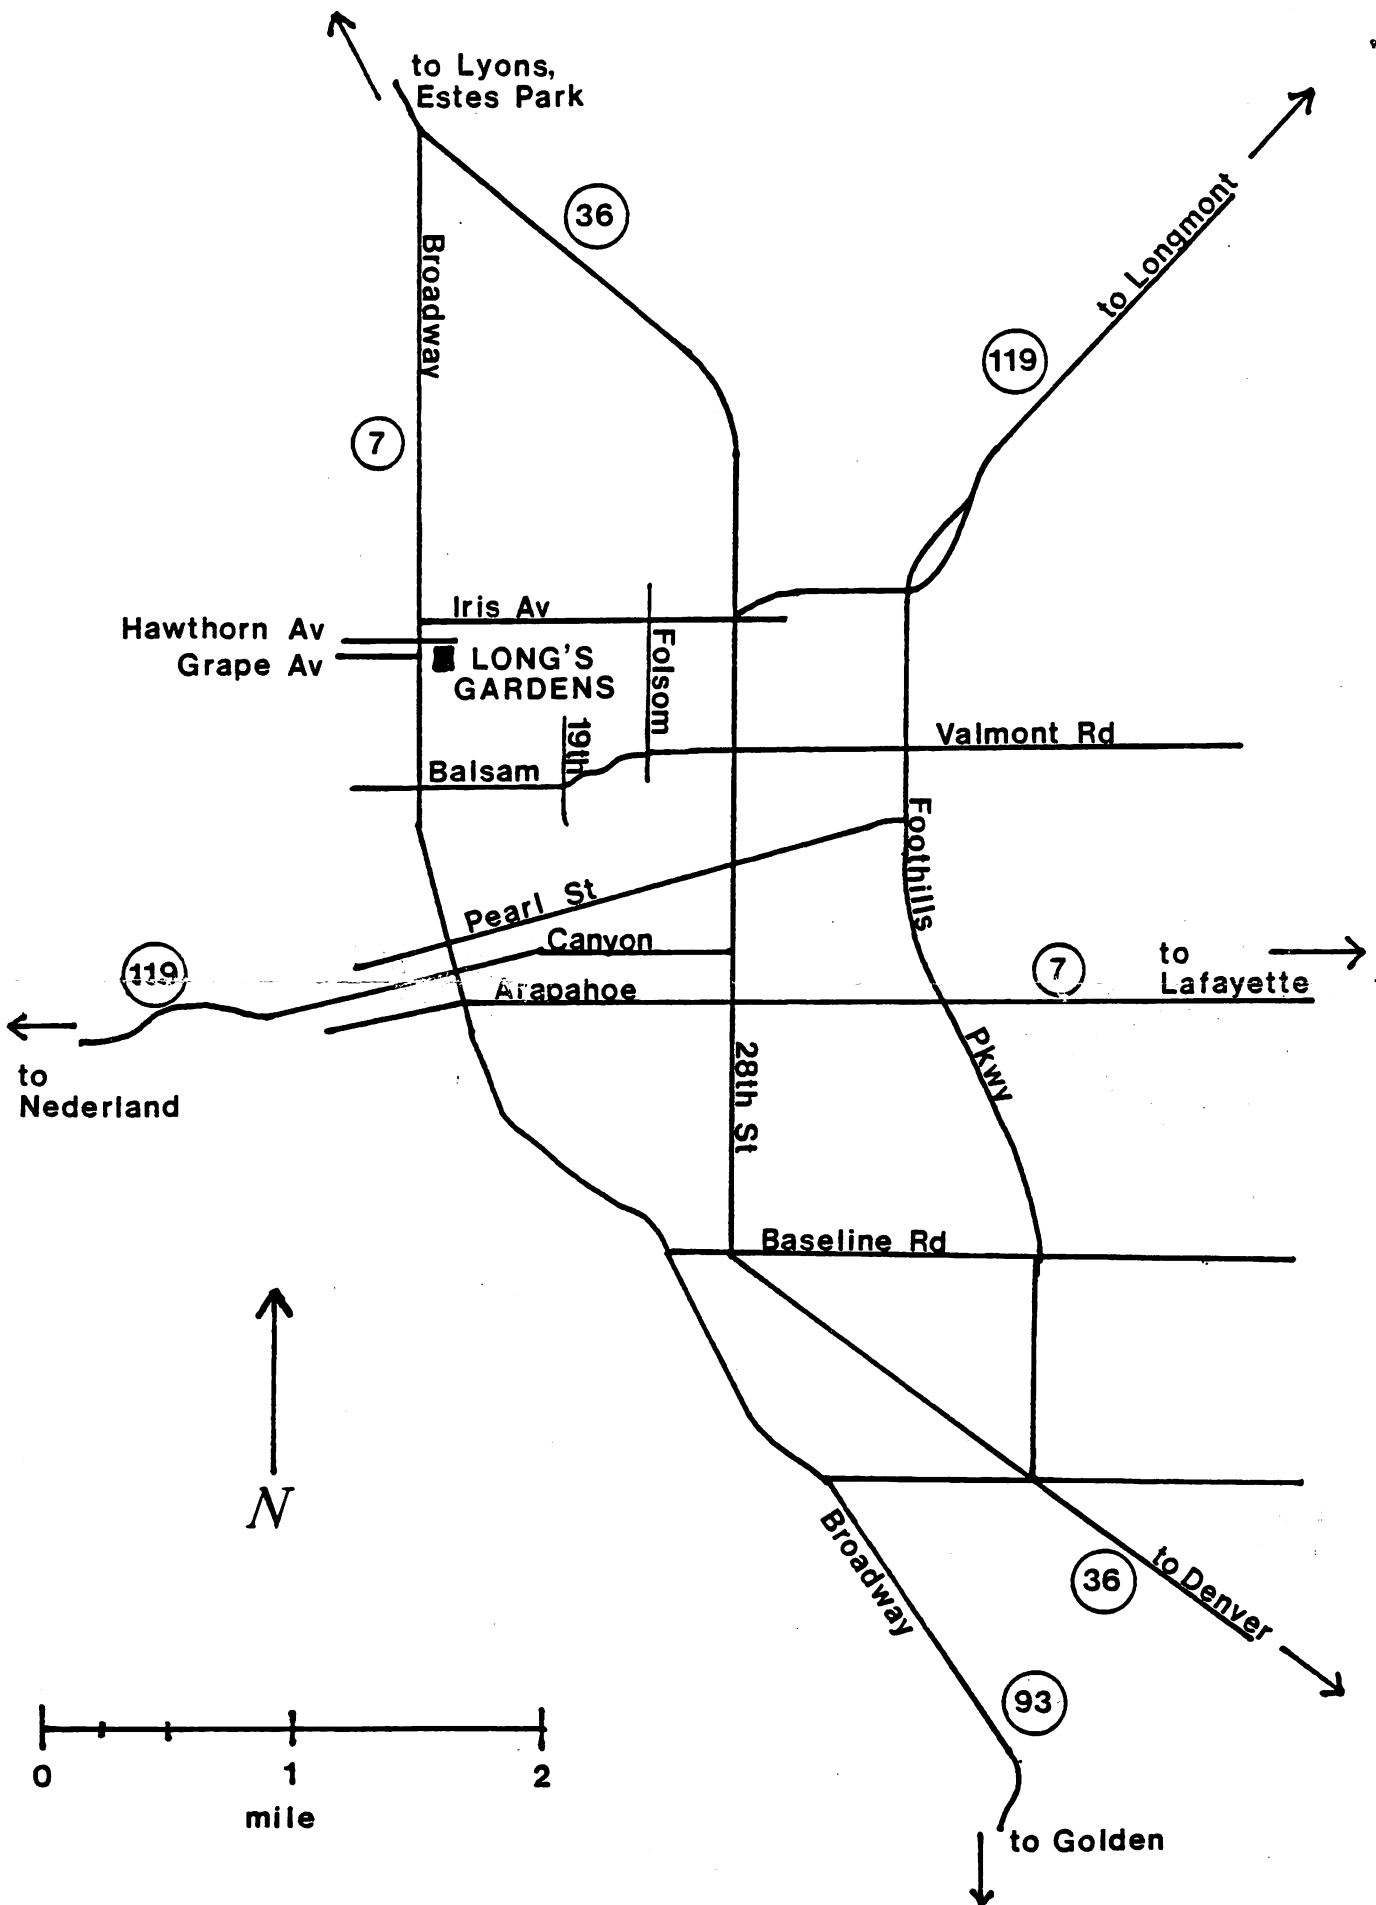

You can create a rainbow of spring color with bearded irises if you have a sunny location (at least a 1/2 day of sun) and well-drained soil.

Plants may be ordered from this listing for shipment in July and August, an ideal time for transplanting. If you are ready to plant this spring and live in the area you may select from a large field of unlabeled tall bearded irises and "dig it yourself" for just $3.28 per clump ($3.50 with tax). Since you must see these irises in bloom to know what color you're getting - please call us to check on the progress of the bloom. The last few days of May and the first week of June are our average prime bloom time for tall bearded irises. Extremes in weather can push this date 7-10 days either side of the average.

We've saved the best for last in this year's listing. Please be sure to check out the latest creations from our Colorado hybridizers on pages 13 & 14.

TRIED AND TRUE OLD AND NEW

TALL BEARDED (TB)

All the iris in our main listing below are Tall Bearded, with stalks over 28" tall and as high as 40". Their time of bloom ranges from mid April in the southern states to late June in the far north and high elevations. Most varieties bloom once a year in the spring, although some will rebloom summer & fall in warm climates. For an explanation of our descriptions please see "Terms & Abbreviations" on page 12.
