

any just a small acknowledgment you're receiving this email because you are a member of The American Iris Society. Don't forget to add robertpries@embarqmail.com to your address book so we'll be sure to land in your inbox! Click here to confirm your interest in receiving our emails.

You may unsubscribe if you no longer wish to receive our emails.

The American Iris Society

News & Notes

October 5 2014

In This Issue

Personalizing the Iris Encyclopedia

What's Happening Now?

Happy Halloween!

British Iris Society Has a New Website

Perusing the Index

Customizing This Month's Jigsaw Puzzles

Personalizing the Iris Encyclopedia

Did you know that in addition to contributing to the Iris Encyclopedia you can make it more personal? You can add comments to

Welcome to the sixteenth regular issue of the AIS News & Notes. Please let us know what you would like to see here. And if you have notes you would like to add, or you would like to become a reporter, please let us know! You can contact either Bob Pries or Wayne Messer with your comments or interest.

What's Happening Now?

How do you find out about events happening in the world of iris? There are the Irises Bulletin, the AIS website, the AIS Facebook page, and many Section, Regional, and Club websites and newsletters. And News & Notes does its best to keep you informed.

Even with all this, it can be difficult to keep up. As far as I know there has been no central place to find what is happening. To help, we have created a page in the Iris Wiki for a calendar. You can see it here. And we need your help! Please add other events and deadlines - it's a Wiki so you can - or send them to wrmesser@gmail.com for inclusion. Links are especially appropriate for this.

Many of the events are ones that we would normally remind you about. For example, in October's list is a reminder that Regional Fall Meetings are continuing and a notice that Aril Society International members can now order in their seed sale. Then there is the Board of topics as well as edit them. If something is missing, you can create new topics. And use the Sandbox to experiment, learn, and create what you like.

The Sandbox is a good place to start. It is a part of the Iris Wiki that you are encouraged to customize and play around with. You can learn how to edit and create topics and links. Each of us has a page there that can be customized. You can see yours by clicking on your name in the left hand column after signing in. Use this to create additional pages as needed.

The Sandbox also has a tutorial and a slideshow to help you get started. Both help you learn about TWiki, the wiki software we use. See the For New Users section on the Sandbox front page for other introductions. Also be sure to check out the Welcome Info specific to the Iris Wiki.

You can use your Sandbox to keep track of what you are working on in the Wiki. You can create drafts of topics you plan to add. You can test features of the Wiki to see how they work before incorporating them into a topic.

As an example, I have been using the Sandbox to keep track of items I'm considering adding, changing, or want to know more about. Some of these may even eventually show up in News & Notes. You can see the current version of this at Working On Now. Mine does include a section To Update that has links to pages you have seen before - Iris Shows, Fall Meetings, Newsletter Resources and the like - many of which will need updated once or more a year. You are welcome to use this page to find topics you would like to work on. Please let me know if there is additional information that would help you.

Directors Meeting in November, which all members are encouraged to attend, the TBIS Fall Meeting, and SIGNA Seed Exchange donation dates.

Check it out and let us know what else you would like to see!

Happy Halloween!

Again the Iris Encyclopedia comes through if you seeking an iris cultivar celebrating the season. For Halloween there are 13 cultivars with the word Halloween - one IB and twelve TBs. Four of these, 'Halloween', 'Halloween' by Sheets', 'Halloween Party', and 'Happy Halloween', are cultivars that really need your photos; they do not have any at this point. And the others could use additional photos.

These irises also illustrate how duplicate names are handled in the Iris Encyclopedia. Yes, there are not supposed to be duplicates. But, quite a few pre-1940/1950 names have been used for later registrations. Because the Iris Encyclopedia will not accept duplicate names for cultivars, we are using the file naming convention that you see with 'Halloween' and 'Halloween' by Sheets': the latter has HalloweenBySheets in the file name. Another example of how the wonderful worlds of irises and computers interact!

British Iris Society Has a New Website

The British Iris Society has a new website at their same web location. You can find it here. It has information about irises, the British Iris Society and its parts, and even their Seeds for Sale. You can also see their latest blog articles, both on the front page and as a separate list.

As with The American Iris Society (links on the left in this newsletter), you can also find the British Iris Society on Facebook and on Twitter.

Perusing the Index

One way I find iris topics I don't know - as in have not heard of and have no idea what they mean - is looking at the Iris Encyclopedia Index to General Iris Information Topics. This has over 300 topics and probably many more links than that. In addition to mainly helping you with the Iris Wiki topics, it has links to topics on the AIS website and other related websites.

This time my unknown topic was the Color Class Glaciatas. Unfortunately for my learning, this is one of those topics

Enjoy the Iris Wiki and thank you for your help!

Quick Links

AIS Website

AIS Facebook

AIS Blog

Iris Encyclopedia

News & Notes Archive

Read AISDiscuss Archives

EMembers Login

::

needing help. However, searching the Iris Encyclopedia for glaciata in articles led me to the Bibliography of Hybridizing \(in AIS Bulletins\) which referenced a 2003 AIS Bulletin article - "Plicatas, Luminatas, and Glaciatas - Based on Postings Originally Made on Iris-Talk" by Keith Keppel, Oregon. And, Emembership to the rescue, I was able to read this online. So now, when you check the glaciatas topic, it has what I was able to understand from the discussion. And links to a couple of examples in the Iris Encyclopedia.

In addition to finding topics in the Index, as a Wiki you can edit it! This means you can add topics needing an entry or cross-reference. Topics on other AIS websites can be linked to and may need their own Wiki topic as well. All of this means that with your help the Iris Encyclopedia will be more useful for you and for everyone to use.

Customizing This Month's Jigsaw Puzzles

This month I know what the iris is because I was able to include the label. It's the Siberian 'Snowy Egret' which I saw at the Iowa Arboretum in June. They have a good collection of Morgan-Wood Medal winners as well. Again there are two version of the puzzle, the Standard version (which some people refer to as the easy one), and the Harder version with twice as many pieces.

For those of you who would like further variations, I learned something about the website. Where it says Play As above the puzzle, the drop-down menu offers pieces from 24 to 300 for the puzzle and custom allows you to change the number of pieces, their shape, and whether rotation of the pieces is allowed. My times became phenomenal when I reduced the number of pieces to 20!

Become an Emember

If you are already a member, you might consider adding an American Iris Society Emembership. This is a way for you to show additional support for AIS. For just $15 a year, in addition to your regular membership charge, you have online access to Irises, including all the back issues of it and the AIS Bulletin, the Registration & Introductions database, and you help to support our online initiatives! Find out more here. And you will qualify for the AIS Voucher Program described in earlier issues.

The Emembers Login link can now be found in the Quick Links in the left column. You will need your username and password which comes from the AIS Membership Secretary (aismemsec@irises.org).

